

B2B

Recruiting across the marketing mix for business to business roles.

Property and Construction

Our property and construction clients cover a vast range such as industry suppliers, property management, estate agencies, residential and commercial builders, architectural and everything in-between.

IT and Tech

The team at blueskies is proud to work for a huge selection of IT and tech companies from smaller managed IT services businesses to global digital infrastructure, hybrid cloud and cybersecurity organisations. Of course, any candidates placed in this sector are hot on the marketing mix, but very strong on digital too.

Industrial and Manufacturing

This is a huge sector for us. We have close relationships with small companies who may manufacture hinges or bolts, through to large civil engineering companies. We cater for the whole marketing mix placing talent from Marketing Assistants through to Directors.

Financial Services

We cover financial services companies, insurance companies, banks and building societies, comparison businesses, in fact, anyone that is monitored by the Financial Conduct Authority. Catering for the full marketing mix, we place candidates with experience in regulated environments or financial product development.

Energy, Utility, and Telco

We cover a vast array of areas in this sector from waste management services to providers of LPG gas across the UK, together with providers of domestic and industrial heating supplies. We've placed hundreds of candidates across the entire marketing mix at every level from juniors through to board level.

Business and Professional Services

We're very active in the business services area, recruiting across roles such as business coaching, employee engagement services, recruitment and training. For professional services we work with accountancy firms of every size through to surveyors and legal firms. You name it, we'll do it.

Automotive

We have close relationships with automotive companies of every possible size. Our team place candidates in a large range of positions such as design, manufacturing and dealerships across the marketing mix, from digital marketers to director roles.
